Todd Bartos is a veteran business trial lawyer focused on novel, efficient litigation solutions that further clients' business interests. He has handled claims nationally in a variety of manufacturing and service industries, including healthcare, financial services, construction, insurance services and consulting. With almost 15 years in the courtroom, Mr. Bartos understands the value of strategic, cost-efficient litigation solutions. He uses the latest in litigation technology to control the litigation costs. Further, Mr. Bartos uses mediation and arbitration in novel ways to drive results.

Starting his career at Stark & Stark, P.C., one of New Jersey's largest law firms, Mr. Bartos represented construction companies, broker-dealers, small and family businesses and individuals in a wide variety of litigation matters. In 2001, he moved to Central Pennsylvania and worked for nearly 13 years with Stevens & Lee, P.C., one of America's 200 largest law firms. As a Shareholder in the Litigation and Healthcare Litigation and Risk Mitigation groups, he has litigated a number of jury trials, appellate arguments, mediations and arbitrations in significant claims around the country, and has been retained by individuals to oversee retained insurance defense counsel in potential super-loss cases. He also represents licensed professionals in disciplinary matters before state licensure boards. He has developed and implemented eDiscovery programs and managed complex technology issues within litigation proceedings. He is often asked to consult regarding new technological issues and risks for clients in a variety of business settings.

Mr. Bartos has also been engaged to manage corporate crisis situations and craft crisis communication strategies. He is also a nationally recognized speaker on a variety of topical business issues and has taught thousands of professionals and entities pragmatic strategies to enhance business while reducing legal risk. His advice has made a true difference in profitability and customer loyalty. His work in the healthcare field in particular has helped to make patient care safer, has enhanced employee satisfaction, improved core economics, and increased market share. Mr. Bartos makes sure that any legal expenditure serves a business interest and, whenever possible, drives bottom-line revenue.
